WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO says President Carter's welfare reform plan would create more than a million low-paying jobs that would undercut the nation's wage structure.

Sharply critical of several key elements in the President's package, the labor federation charged Monday the plan would result in a "pool of secondclass citizens" and would not provide adequate aid for a family of four.

The organization's executive council said the Carter proposal "falls far short of what is needed to provide the poor with decent jobs or adequate income.

DEAR POLLY - Hazel wanted to know of a way she could fix two windows so she could see out but those on the outside could not see in. The sales catalog of a well-known mail order house describes a spray-on film for such windows which also stops sun glare and furniture fading, makes the glass shatterproof and reduces heat loss. Even with the cost of the tool kit needed this could be applied for about half of the amount of the price given her. - MRS.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY - My neighbors and I are plagued with sand fleas that get on the children, down deep in our shag rugs and all over. Everything we have used to get rid of them has failed. The best thing was a flea spray but that is expensive as I use two cans to spray all my carpets once a week. If I skip a week they are back in full force so I hope some of the readers will have some suggestions for us. -

DEAR PAT - Perhaps the above letter from a reader will be of some help to you. Also it is sometimes recommended that one thoroughly spray a room with FLY SPRAY, close it up for an hour or so and then repeat within three days. - POLLY

Women in electronics need sense of humor

JoAnn Hudson didn't realize that electronics wasn't a woman's field when she enrolled in the electronics course at State Fair Community College -- that is until they told her (after all the paper work was done) that she was the first woman to take the course at the school.

That was just her first hint.

Since her graduation two years ago she has been an instructor in the program, a fact that will probably make life a little easier for the Green Ridge girl enrolled in the high school program and the two girls enrolled in the college program.

"Anyone who enjoys math, likes problem solving and likes using their hands could succeed in electronics," Mrs. Hudson said. For females interested in the field she also added one more requirement, 'a sense of humor

'As far as job opportunities go, they are the same for a woman as a man. I can't think of anything that a man can do in the field that a woman couldn't do.

The SFCC programs turn out technicians, those who maintain and repair electronic equipment. This requires two years of training consisting of one year of fundamentals — the use of test equipment, theory, and basic circuits — and one year of specialized training in one of two areas. One area involves communications equipment, both two-way and television, the other involves computers. Mrs. Hudson teaches fun-

NEW YORK (NEA) - Outside Stan Herman's studio (near the New York Public Library), the city is dissolving and floating away under extra-natural heat.

Inside, Stan Herman neatly bearded, neatly tanned -is talking about layering.

"First, we were just going to do warm sleepwear over warm sleepwear for Kentelle, which is a new sleep and loungewear firm, but the pieces stuck to each other, so we came up with quilted pieces lined with tricot that don't stick.

Quilted pieces — a breast-warmer (or vest), a short kimono sleeve jacket, a long wrap skirt, a tabard, and a three-quarter bubble robe all in brown or gray with white piping, in sizes petite, small and medium, from $16 to $42.

Herman is saying there actually will come nights whenwomen will wear these things over the white brushed nylon underclothes - pajamas, a variety of long gowns - he designed for the group in the same sizes, from $22 to $27.50.

Think of it, ice on the highrise buildings, piercing winds in the subway, why it's enough grateful tears.

In the '60s, women were so self-conscious in their short skirts that the first thing they did when they sat down was smooth their skirts so nothing would show, Now, with longer hemlines they immediately cross their legs at the knee and don't worry about it.

"Well, with the energy crisis" — it suddenly becomes warmer in the studio - "people will be a little more conscious of how the bed is made. for instance. They won't jump in, they'll slip in like we did in the army so as not to undo the bedclothes. And they'll stay in one position longer because they won't be able to move with all the clothes they'll be wearing," he jokes.

Of course, most women will remove the quilted accessory pieces before going to bed. "I do think the woman should take the bubble robe off, but if it were cold enough, she could wear the tabard to bed because the elastic isn't too close to the body, and she could wear the breastwarmer, certainly

"If we can accomplish those two objectives—the right to use and the right to defend-and still accomplish the further objective of being a good neighbor and extending our sphere of influence in Latin America, then so much the better,' Danforth said in Springfield, the first stop of a southwest Missouri tour.

Danforth said President Carter's prestige would be seriously damaged if the Senate fails to ratify his Panama Canal treaty, and added that he expects to be among those senators that vote for ratification.

"If the United States is going to be a President has got to be given authority to conduct foreign policy, and I think it would be a tremendous blow to his prestige and his ability to conduct foreign policy for this country if the treaty were not ratified," Danforth said.

Teasdale opts for referendum on labor issue

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) - Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale said Monday that right-to-work legislation may become the most controversial item to be considered during the next legislative session. Teasdale, in a wide-ranging news conference in Springfield, said he favored letting voters decide the issue by a referendum.

The governor, admitting he had not been able to keep in close contact with Missourians during his first eight months in office, said he planned to travel extensively throughout the state this fall and take his 1978 legislative package to the citizens. He said the practice would become an annual activity.

The governor said time had been his main enemy this past legislative session, not allowing him enough time to research and prepare his legislative pro-

> The governor also said he planned to issue orders to his aides and other state agency directors not to destroy their letters dealing with state government matters. However, the governor declined to state an opinion about the destruction of general correspondence during the administration of his predecessor, Christopher Bond.

Teasdale was in Springfield to announce a $500,000 grant for a road through an industrial park to the new multi-million dollar Army National Guard aircraft repair hangar.

Rhodes and the other two blacks were terminated, Hall said, after they walked off the job on July 14 and 15. They were terminated when they reported for work on July 18, Hall said, as a result of their unexcused absences from their duties. Those absences, Hall said, were the result of bickering over having to do 'bulldozer work'' and not receiving their bi-monthly paychecks at the end of the last day of the period.

They were complaining about having to cut brush along with his regular crew and having to wait until the following day for county officials to process time cards and paychecks, Hall explained.

Donald E. Graves, commission inestigator, questioned the County Court, Hall and other county officials Tuesday morning as part of his investigation. Graves explained his findings, when completed, will be presented to the commission for a ruling. If the ruling goes against the county and conciliatory attempts are unsuccessful, extensive municipal, state and federal lawsuits may result, he said.

Graves' investigation Tuesday concentrated on the county's employment and termination practices. County officials also agreed to furnish him with employment records requested in connection with his investigation.

and Gary Gleason, both employes of the State Division of Commerce and Industrial Development who helped the city secure the Kelsey-Hayes plant.

Mayor Allen Hawkins addressed the group, noting that Sedalia has a heritage of wheel-manufacturing operations because the old Sedalia Carriage Co. manufactured wagon wheels and the Missouri-Pacific Shops helped make train wheels. Kelsey-Hayes is the world's largest wheel manufacturer.

The plant will employ between 200 and 250 persons and will produce 10 million vehicle wheels annually when full operations begin in about three years. This full-force manufacturing operation will consist of four wheel production lines. Limited production involving between 125 and 150 employes on two production lines will hopefully begin next May or June, it was earlier reported. The plant building is expected to be completed by around the end of the year if all goes well.

Furnish names, medical group tells agency

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) - The Missouri State Medical Association asked state welfare officials today to supply a list of doctors accused of submitting fraudulent Medicaid claims so disciplinary action can be taken against

"We're tired of the entire medical profession being made the whipping boy by bureaucrats for the corrupt actions of a very small minority," said the association president, Howard McAlhany.

The request was prompted by comments a week ago by Thomas Lyndon, the chief fraud investigator for the state Department of Social Services. Lyndon said his office has uncovered instances of the state being billed twice for the same operation and conspiracies between doctors, pharmacists and nursing

'Our profession has long-established ethics committees to deal with situations such as this," McAlhany said, "but the state has not contacted us with the information these committees need to carry out their duties. Instead, the state chooses to cast a shadow over the entire medical profession, which receives only about 10 per cent of the total Medicaid dollar.

McAlhany said many Missouri doctors refuse to participate in the Medicaid program now because of the low reimbursement, and he said the accusation of Lyndon "with overtones of guilt-byassociation" could cause participation to fall even further. Further reductions in the number of doctors participating in Medicaid will directly affect the poor by limiting the medical services available to them. 'Our Medicaid program needs definite improvements, not irresponsible blanket allegations," McAlhany said. "Our association is offering its assistance to the state and we are hopeful of favorable

U.S. has no choice on Taiwan

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON - Back in June of 1976, Jimmy Carter delivered himself of a formal statement on the matter of China. He then had the Democratic nomination locked up; he was under no pressure to make promises he might later regret.

Mr. Carter said that he favored restoration of full diplomatic relations with the People's Republic of China, but he added a condition. He favored normalization, he said, "only on a basis in which there are assurances that the People's Republic will respect our trade and commitments to

A little more than a year earlier, speaking to the American Chamber of Commerce in Tokyo, Mr. Carter laid down a general principle applicable to the case at hand. A policy of detente with China should be pursued, he said, "but not at the expense of close cooperation and consultation with our friends and allies." Mr. Carter emphasized that "we must again reorient our foreign policy attention toward our friends.

The United States has no firmer friend in the world than it has in Taiwan. Our commitments, wrapped up in the Mutual Defense Treaty of 1954, are too plain to be misunderstood. The treaty, by constitutional definition, is part of the "supreme law of the land." For the Carter administration to abandon our friends on Formosa, and to abrogate a treaty of more than 20 years's standing, would be an act of palpable dishonor. And if honor no longer matters in the conduct of foreign policy, the abandonment of Taiwan may be described as simply

What is this talk of "normalization"? It is little more than the chatter of a few intellectuals who tend to put form ahead of substance. By "normalization" apparently is meant the exchange of ambassadors, rather than the exchange of upheaval and revolution. lesser diplomats. The term involves embassies instead of liaison offices; it involves limousines instead of four-door sedans; it involves large and expensive staffs instead of small and frugal staffs; it involves - oh, dear! - who is to sit where at formal dinners. A mere chief of a liaison office sits somewhere south of Secretary Vance's purpose in going to a mild conservation program. Now we Peking last week was to pursue this have seen White House memos warning vanid business of "normalization."

What would be gained by "normalization"? Some putative benefits could be cited: limited tourist travel, limited press coverage, more frequent interchange of scholars and ping-pong players. But these advantages would be purchased at a terrible price, the price of treachery, the price of dishonor. Is this what Mr. Carter proposes to pay?

The price is too high. The Communists have not budged from their position that "normalization" can be purchased only at the cost of Tajwan. We must scrap the existing treaty, close our embassy in Taipei, withdraw the 1,200 U.S. troops now stationed there, and leave the 17 million Formosans to defend themselves against 900 million on the mainland. The next step would require the sale of American arms to the Communist regime in order to make its task of "liberation" a little easier.

Any such policy would be rooted in

BILLION-DOLLAR BATTLE: Congress created the Cost Accounting Standards Board in 1970 to bring order to Pentagon bookkeeping. Cost overruns and other expensive bugaboos are often decided by the definitions that the bookkeepers adopt. The accountant's pen thus becomes as powerful as the congressman's vote.

The board's first modest efforts were to regulate accountants. Now the board is attempting to cope with the actuaries, those little understood professionals who set up pension funds. In a sense, the actuaries rig the game before the bargaining begins.

The stakes are high for the taxpayers. Although the exact figure appears to be beyond precise calculation, actuaries juggle the mortality, employment and other economic data that will determine the fate of more than $2 billion in government-backed pension funds each Actuaries are a baffling lot, even to accountants. Actuaries shroud their work in mystery and use a special mumbojumbo that confuses the uninitiated. Words don't always mean what they seem and, alternately, different words mean the same thing.

For example, the phrases "prior service cost," "supplemental present value," and "accrued liability" all mean the same thing, but only a few nonactuaries know this.

Those astounding actuaries have also created at least 37 different ways to count the same pool of money. And the board has records showing two sets of actuarial figures to describe the same company: one for financial statements, the other for tax purposes.

The General Accounting Office recently ran a spot check on nine defense contractors' use of actuaries to set up pension funds. The government auditors uncovered over $100 million in "questionable pension plan costs, excluding profits that...may be charged to government contracts because (of) unrealistic actuarial assumptions."

One of these contractors, identified only as "Contractor G," allegedly stuck the government for $40.9 million in excessive pension costs. We have learned that "Contractor G" is Aerojet General. A spokesman told us merely that the company "doesn't agree with the GAO

The point is that the more muscular development you have as a result of the workexercise if you then stop and do very little it will look like the muscles disappear faster than in a person who has smaller muscles to start with. Dear Dr. Lamb - Can you tell me what the difference is, if any, in taking regular thyroid tablets and taking kelp tablets?

I've heard and read that both have iodine and help the thyroid gland to manufacture thyroxine which an underactive thyroid needs. I'm taking two grains of thyroid daily but would prefer to take kelp if it would do the job as well.

Dear Reader - Kelp is a seaweed and it contains iodine. If a person is deficient in iodine it is a useful source for it. However, it is not the same thing as thyroid tablets at all and cannot be substituted for them.

Thyroid tablets do not contain iodine. They are replacement hormone for the natural thyroid hormone, thyroxine, produced by the thyroid gland. The reason for giving thyroid tablets is because a person's own thyroid gland does not produce enough thyroid hormone. That condition is seldom related to iodine deficiency - although iodine deficiency can cause goiters of the thyroid gland. Usually low thyroid function is an aftermath of an inflammation of the thyroid gland, often unrecognized. I think you had better stay with your thyroid tablets if your doctor thinks you need them.

Packer backers in for long wait

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

Prospectus

The Pack is not back, and won't be for awhile. They've now had ing season in row, but Coach Bart Starr professes some optimism with his building program. The staple of the old packer dynasty, an ability to control the ball, is most glaring deficiency. Like most losing teams, the Packers also seem to suffer with injuries to key people.

Offense

Quarterback: Lynn Dickey remains the main hopeful, though he was decked with shoulder separation last month of '76. Gives much-traveled Randy Johnson chance for still another chance. Rating-C-

Receiving: Start with one of the fine tight ends in the business, Rich McGeorge, who doesn't get much attention. Quality slightly lower outside, though, since Ken Payne slumped in '76 and neither Steve Odom or Ollie Smith has put clamps on starting role. Rating—B

Rushing: The John Brockington decline continues, matching that of team. The one-time 1,000-yarder will likely lose fullback job to Barry Smith if latter can avoid injury Willard Harrell is swifty at halfback but has to be paced because of size. Rating-C+

Offensive Line: Gale Gillingham finally retired, and that leaves huge void at guard. Couple of youngsters, Mark Koncar, and Mel Jackson, are promising sophs. Drafted big tackle Greg Koch. Still have oldies Dick Himes, Bruce Van Dyke for stability. Rating-B-

Defense

Defensive Line: The people are the same, which means there's a lot of bulk to head off enemy runs, but there's lack of pressure on passer. That could come from top draftees Mike Butler and Ezra Johnson. Dave Roller is active tackle. Rating-B-

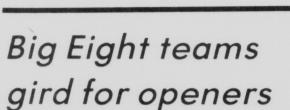

Linebackers: Can they count on comeback from Jim Carter, injury-plagued last two years? Otherwise, there's void in middle. The outside is well fortified with Fred Carr, still a tiger after a decade, and Gary Weaver, brilliant pickup from Oakland. Rating—B

Secondary: Willie Buchanon, a class performer, is at one of the corners. The safety spots are securely held down by Johnny Gray, the interception leader, and bruising Steve Luke. Rating-B

Kicking, Special Teams: Chet Marcol had off-year as field goal kicker, with 10-for-19, but past history forces Packers to go with him. Dave Beverly is just so-so punter but not challenged. Mike C. McCoy leads kickoff returns on mediocre special teams. Rating-B-

Prediction

There are too many soft spots for genuine optimism. One might even extend that to Starr's leadership, which still must be proven in coaching capacity. And they haven't helped themselves much between seasons. I predict fourth in NFC Central.

Although the three pitchers were credited with having appeared in the game, Herzog inserted regulars Hal McRae, Al Cowens and John Mayberry when the game began.

Herzog said he made out the original lineup to protest Mac-Phail's having ordered the Royals to play Monday. The AL West leaders played in Baltimore Sunday and begin an important series with the Texas Rangers Tuesday night in Kansas City

'I like New York, but I don't like it today," Herzog snapped. "The Texas Rangers are playing golf in Kansas City today. This league has rules for certain teams and rules for the Yankees. I didn't want to play this game today. I wanted to play it after the season, if needed.

Allen said the first rate hike customer's monthly bill by

The temporary rate hike is additional money for the period until May 1978, when the PSC was to decide on an earlier application for a 22 per cent increase in electrical rates. That would provide $11.6 million annually and would increase the average customer's bill $4.73 a month.

The temporary increase would end when the PSC hands down a decision on the 22 per cent increase application.
